Prospects House– Prospects.ac.uk

Upon leaving University, Prospects House provides teams who support student graduates in the next step in their careers. Helping to bridge the gap between employer and student, Prospects.ac.uk are a vital part of the UK economy, helping companies recruit new talent, whilst simultaneously giving students a pathway into their professional livelihoods. As term contractors for Painting & Decorating at Manchester University, George Jones were recruited by one the biggest graduate recruiters in the UK, for the external redecoration of their building on campus, after high recommendations from the facilities department.

The external redecoration at Prospects House (pictured), required extensive preparation beforehand, with a full colour change to the building. Gaining high level access from 2 cherry pickers, George Jones' directly employed operatives worked simultaneously to the external of the building, to start and complete within 3 weeks. Moving around the building, block colour changes were applied to various sections throughout to offset the grey external, matching the eye catching website of the customer in question. Metalshield was applied to metallic areas, to modernise and prevent rusting throughout.

Set amongst one of the largest student populations in the UK, the team at George Jones had to maintain a constant level of security to ensure the safety of students and staff alike. Areas were cordoned off and monitored by a standby man on the ground throughout the commencement of works, to maintain a consistent high standard of H&S. The end finish brings the building up to a standard which it's design and the business which it houses is deserving of, with a striking semblance of colours against a neutral background. We can perform any manner of redecoration such as this, within the timeframe you require, get in touch and see how we could do the same for your business.
